MARMARINO

Marmarino on walls often have a soft, matte and velvety appearance, adding a gentle touch to the overall aesthetic subtle and elegant look to the walls. Marmarino can be textured, creating depth and visual interest on the walls with variations in the application technique. It has a slightly translucent quality, allowing for a subtle play of light and shadow on the walls, thus creating a natural and organic feel, contributing to a harmonious and calming environment. Often in warm undertones, Marmarino adds a cozy and inviting ambiance to the space.

The texture sample provided in physical form is indicative of the intended colour & texture but may not precisely match the final product due to manufacturing processes and material characteristics.

The texture paint application is a manual process, and variations in the texture and finish may occur. Slight differences in texture and appearance may be expected due to the nature of the manual application. It is always recommended to finalize the texture after applying on the small area and then move ahead with the entire area.
